What is a Default Judgment?

A default judgment is usually obtained by the plaintiff when the defendant does not appear at a hearing or does not file an answer to the summons and complaint.

I received a default judgment against me, is there anything I can do?

Under certain circumstances you may be able to file a Motion to Vacate Default Judgment. (To understand what a motion is, please review our guide: What is a Motion?)

Under what circumstances can I file a Motion to Vacate Default Judgment?

- If a motion to do so is made within six months of the entry of default or dismissal;
- And if the default or dismissal was the result of the party's "mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect," or because the court has assumed jurisdiction of the law practice of the party's attorney (California Code of Civil Procedure §§ 473(b), 473.1);
- Or up to two years after entry of a default judgment where service of the original summons did not result in actual notice to a defendant in time to defend, or, if the defendant received written notice of the default judgment, within 180 days thereafter. In either case, the defendant must show that the lack of notice was not caused by the defendant's deliberate avoidance of service or inexcusable neglect (California Code of Civil Procedure § 473.5).

Generally, if you cannot actually claim one the above stated grounds than your motion will not be considered by the court.

Examples of mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect may include:

- Illness of defendant.
- Attorney's abandonment of client.
- Fraud of the plaintiff.

Where do I get the forms to file the Motion to Vacate?

Motions are custom forms that you create/draft yourself on pleading paper (paper numbered down the left side, exactly like the paper this guide is printed on).

1 So how do I draft a motion?

2 Motions include several parts:

- 3 • The application or motion typically called a “Notice of Motion” (This tells the court what 4 you want to do);
- 5 • A Memorandum of Points and Authorities (The law that allows the court to grant your 6 application/motion);
- A Declaration (This is your statement of facts, a chance to tell your story);
- An Order for the Judge to sign if he grants your application/motion.

7 Is there an example I can use to help me draft this motion?

8 A sample of what this type of Motion might look like is provided below. But you will have to 9 decide whether the sample is the correct form for your situation. You may need to modify the 10 form so it fits your case.

11 Blank Pleading paper (paper numbered down the left side, exactly like the paper this guide is 12 printed on) is available at <http://www.sblawlibrary.org/forms.html>

13 What do I do after I draft my forms?

14 Once you have drafted the forms to your specifications you can file them with the court.
15 Typically, the clerk will assign a hearing date for your application/motion. You will most likely 16 need to serve the other party involved and file a Proof of Service. Some courts will serve the 17 papers for you.

12 mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect (Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b)).

13 B. Policy of Law Favors Trial on Merits. The policy of the law is that controversies should be 14 heard and disposed of on their merits (Fasuyi v. Permatex, Inc. (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 681,
15 694-703, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 351 ; Berman v. Klassman (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 900, 909, 95 Cal.

19 900, 909, 95 Cal. Rptr. 417).

20 D. Liberal Construction of Statute. Code of Civil Procedure Section 473(b) is a remedial
21 measure to be liberally construed, and any doubts existing as to the propriety of setting aside a
22 default thereunder will be resolved in favor of a hearing on the merits (Berman v. Klassman 23 (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 900, 910, 95 Cal. Rptr. 417).
